ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS REWARD. I will give the above reward for the apprehension and conviction of him who gave my servant boy GEORGE, Free Papers, and induced him to quit my service.—George absented himself from my house on the 6th April last, and I understood went off in the Augusta Stago, on the night of the 7th, in company with Messrs. Travis, Brother, Seawell, Smith and Durham. If either of these gentlemen have any recollection of a colored boy having traveled in the stage with them from Columbia to Aiken at that time, they will confer a favor by writing me at Columbia, S. C., and say if he answers to the description given in this advertisement.—I understand his name as put on the Way-Bill, was JOHN TYNE.

George is rather a dark mulatto, about 18 years old, not very stout make, a little knock-kneed, walks and talks very pretty, and quite a dandy in his dress, which he will no doubt change very frequently, as he had plenty of money when he left. No marks recollected, except one of his big toes (I think the right) is considerably shorter than the other and turns up a little. He has been waiting on the table in Clark's Hotel the last ten years, and will probably be recognized by any gentleman, who may have seen him in said Hotel, who may meet with him in any part of the U. States. I will give $100 for the delivery of George to me in Columbia, S. C. if he is taken in any part of this State; and if taken in any other slave-holding State I will give $200; and if taken in any of the non-slave-holding States I will give $500 for his delivery as above. George was seen in Charleston a few days after he left Columbia, and said he expected to leave that place for New York or Boston in a short time. I understand a boy answering his description has been seen in Mobile.

P. S. I will give the first reward for proof to conviction against any responsible white man, who may have conveyed off the above named boy from Charleston or any other place in this State. J. W. CLARK.

Columbia, S. C., June 20, 1835.

The Editors of the New York Journal of Commerce; Augusta Chronicle; Mobile Mercantile Advertiser, and Boston Commercial Gazette, are requested to insert the above once a week for three weeks, on the inside of the paper, and forward their accounts as above.
